Overview: This project provides courses jointly offered by Chinese and Japanese universities with the purpose of co-cultivating globally competitive talents. The project, taking the form of international joint teaching, offers lectures, discussions, cultural instructions and other activities, the topics of which include: Course 1-- Japanese Modern History and Chinese Culture; Course 2-- Communication in the Context of International Education; Course 3-- "Memory of Jiangsu's Cities" found in Japanese classics. On the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the normalization of Sino Japanese diplomatic relations, this summer school course, taking Sino Japanese communication and cultural comparison as the starting point and giving consideration to international frontier academics, offers in-depth online courses and introduces the new model of mixed teaching to help students sense the social and cultural differences between China and Japan, promote cross-cultural understanding, train cross cultural communication skills from the perspective of internationalization, and enhance the exchange of Chinese and Japanese young students.
